African-American Inventors

Reflections In Black Museum, Inc., African-American History on Wheels will provide you with an exciting exhibit of various items invented by African-Americans. Each display includes the patent date, a biographical sketch of the inventor, and additional historical information and facts.

Did you know that it was an African-American who invented the refrigerator? What about the traffic signal? You've heard of Edison and electricity, but did you know that an African-American invented the first practical light bulb?

The following are just a few of the items available to make your experience with Reflections In Black Museum, Inc. memorable:

- Gas Mask
- Golf Tee
- Ice Cream Scoop
- Ink Pen
- Instant Potatoes
- Pencil Sharpener
- Traffic Signal
- Dasani Drinking Water

African American History On Wheels

Reflections In Black Museum, Inc., African-American History on Wheels, was founded in 1998 by Clifton J. Brown. Our goal is to Educate, Motivate and Inspire others by sharing little known information about the contributions of African-Americans throughout history. These contributions include inventions, many of which are still in use today. We celebrate the accomplishments that brilliant African-Americans made to world civilization.

CAN'T GET TO THE MUSEUM?

Don't worry! Reflections In Black Museum will bring its exhibit to you! We set-up the exhibit in a pleasurable manner, creating an exciting atmosphere. It's fun and different, but most importantly -- it's educational. You will be inspired to learn more about every day items that were created or improved upon by African-Americans.

In addition, the presentations are tailored to the audience, making it age-appropriate and interesting for everyone.

Furthermore, we are available to make presentations throughout the year.

OUR AUDIENCE

Reflections In Black Museum's exhibit is designed for people of all ages, races and backgrounds. According to a survey from previous customers, the invention's showcase was the favorite because it contains common objects that made learning about history more interesting.

Many of the young people were interested in the super soaker water gun, and the first black female astronaut to travel into space. Regardless of your age, sex, or race, Reflections In Black Museum's exhibit will appeal to you!

Here's a sample of items you'll discover at our Exhibit.
